Building Stronger Families and Safer Communities

ABOUT US

Dardi Munwurro (Strong Spirit) is a specialist First Peoples family violence service. Our vision is to build stronger families and safer communities. We do this by delivering a range of family violence programs, to break the cycle of inter-generational trauma in First Peoples families and communities, by empowering and inspiring individuals to heal the past, acknowledge the present and create a positive vision for the future.

CHANGING WAYS PROGRAM

Increasing the safety of partners and family members of men who use violence is the primary objective and priority of Changing Ways. A comprehensive risk assessment is conducted with the partner and/or family members before seeking to engage with the adult using family violence. Current and former partners and family members of people who use violence can be referred to Changing Ways from a range of specialist services, from the community (including self-referral), however risk assessment of all referrals will prioritise those people at imminent risk of harm for priority support. Individual and family safety plans and case plans will be developed to support safety and empower all members of a family at serious risk of violence. Changing Ways is designed to align with the Victorian Family Violence Multi-Agency Risk Assessment and Management Framework (MARAM), which was established to ensure services are effectively and collaboratively identifying, assessing and managing family violence risks to keep our families safe.
