ABOUT US

Dardi Munwurro (Strong Spirit) is a specialist First Peoples family violence service. Our vision is to build stronger families and safer communities. We do this by delivering a range of family violence programs, to break the cycle of inter-generational trauma in First Peoples families and communities, by empowering and inspiring individuals to heal the past, acknowledge the present and create a positive vision for the future.

CHANGING WAYS PROGRAM

Changing Ways is a holistic, cultural healing and behaviour change program designed to:

- Engage people using serious-risk family violence and support them to take responsibility for stopping their violence
- Increase the safety of their former, current and future partners and family members.

We engage partners and family members experiencing or at risk of family violence in regular, ongoing risk assessment and safety planning, including coordinating multi-agency support to address their identified healing and safety priorities. We work hard to engage the person who uses violence and support them to take responsibility for and change their behaviour, and connect them with supports to address the issues that increase the risk of them using violence. This can include short term accommodation, physical and mental health supports, alcohol and other drug rehabilitation, cultural strengthening, community connection, provision of transport, food & clothing and access to education and employment programs.

Current and former partners and family members of people who use violence and adults who use violence can be referred.
